RE: UPDATED NSW HEALTH DIRECTIVES

Dear All,

We are writing in follow-up to our communications issued to you today regarding the directives published by NSW Health. Please be advised that since our letter to you, NSW Health have updated their directives to include new information as it relates to locations of concern identified in Queensland.

For your reference, we are including a link to these new directives dated 8 January 2021. We ask that you review the information contained within the following NSW Health link and continue to check the link should the information be updated over the weekend given the rapidly changing situation that is the COVID-19 pandemic.

We thank you for your understanding and continued vigilance as we navigate this situation together in support of our residents, your loved ones and our staff members. If you have any questions, please get in touch with your Centre Manager.

Kind regards,
